

I do not want to be bothered by bankers and their affiliates; they are just as annoying as every other unsolicited phone call. The no call list is a wonderful thing; this would make it POINTLESS. Please reconsider.

Imagine: you finally get home after a busy work day, have dealt with traffic, you finished helping the kids with schoolwork, and you're finally sitting down as a family playing a game, watching TV, etc. The phone rings...unsolicited phone call...this is family time. Our homes should be kept private!!
